

Dr. Jinren Ni

Dr. Jinren Ni, is a professor in the College of Environmental Sciences and Engineering, Peking University, and a fellow of the Chinese Academy of Sciences, China.

With the expertise of water and sediment science as well as environmental engineering and technology, he made innovative advancement in river dynamic geomorphology, water pollution control, and water resources management. He has published 5 monographs, over 50 patents, and more than 300 referred journal articles. He has been selected as the Elsevier Highly Cited Chinese Researcher and won the Second Prize of National Science and Technology Progress Award and the Second Prize of National Technology Invention Award in China. He is also a recipient of the National Science Fund for Distinguished Young Scholars (1996), a visiting professor and Swire Fellow at Oxford University, and a visiting professor at the University of Edinburgh. He has served as a Vice President of the Chinese Society for Environmental Sciences, member of the Environmental Advisory Committee of the Ministry of Environmental Protection, member of the Science and Technology Committee of the Ministry of Water Resources, member of the Geosciences and Environmental Resources Committee of the Ministry of Education, Executive Editor-in-Chief of National Science Open, and member of the editorial board of several international journals.